City water, sewage concerns aired

By JEFF BROWN
PAHOKEE - Pahokee is knee-deep in wastewater and water plant problems. A crew from the University of Florida will be arriving in Pahokee next week to assist the city in its attempts to come into compliance with state and county regulations at the wastewater treatment facility and the water plant operator told the a group of citizens that the city's water is safe to drink in spite of its bad taste and smell.

The Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services has served the city with formal notification that the city's wastewater treatment plant on McClure Road is in violation of county and state laws.

According to the notice, the rapid sand filters at the plant are being bypassed and there aren't enough certified class C operators at the facility.

The plant is also allegedly overloaded and is discharging too high an effluent concentration.

The city was given seven days from the day it received the letter, January 3, to notify the department of the steps it intends to take correct the violations.

If it fails to comply, it may be charged up to $500 a day for each violation.

The city engineer, Jim Suddarth, recommended the council accept the offer from the University of Florida for voluntary assistance.

He said the school's officials involved in the operation would expect the city to "make every effort to follow its recommendations" to bring the plant into compliance. That may include hiring additional operators or purchasing new equipment, said Suddarth.

Suddarth added that while some of the violations were minor or involved "catch-all" regulations, others were serious and that he couldn't defend them.

He said that he's been corresponding with officials with HRS and other agencies concerned with the operation of the city's wastewater plant, but often felt his professionalism was tested for doing so.

"What can I say. It's (the rapid sand filters) being bypassed," said Suddarth. "If there's a reason, fine. But, what can I say. I told them (the operators) three times a valve's busted."

Hospital expansion announced

By BRENDA BUNTING
PAHOKEE - Everglades Memorial Hospital will start an expansion program in the next couple of weeks that will double the baby delivery capacity and add services for newborns and children. Official word was received Friday from the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services that the "Certificate of Need" for phase one of the expansion program was approved.

"It is really a big step forward for the entire community," Hospital Administrator Frank Steinberger said, "and it will make the availability of beds meet the present need."

"We have patients that have to be referred to other facilities simply because of the lack of bed space," Steinberger said. "We have also had other patients who had to wait until a patient is discharged before they could be admitted."

"This expansion will alleviate problems of this nature for the foreseeable future."

Donald Anderson, associate administrator at the hospital is the planner who worked closely with the Phase I Expansion Project.

He told a group of employees and reporters at a special meeting called Tuesday afternoon that as they probably already knew "We have quite a baby business going here."

He said Everglades Memorial Hospital delivered approximately 1,200 infants last year. The existing obstetrical unit has nine beds.

The new facility will house a completely new obstetrical unit bringing the number of obstetrical beds available to 18.

Anderson said the obstetrical unit will relieve the crowded medical-surgical unit, instead of utilizing beds allocated for medical-surgical, as is now being done.

The present obstetrical wing on the second floor of the hospital will be turned into a pediatric unit. Donaldson said the newborn nursery unit will also double its capacity.

"We will also have five labor beds," Donaldson said. "That may seem like a lot, but a week ago yesterday, we had seven women in labor at one time."

The facility will also have two 10-bed nursery units. One will be staffed and equipped as a level II nursery (for babies in need of intensive care) and the other will remain as a standard care nursery.

The construction will be done by McDevitt and Street Company of Altamonte Springs. The company is estimating the time of completion to be

Authorities investigating Pahokee fire

PAHOKEE - State authorities are investigating an early morning blaze that destroyed a rooming house in the center of Pahokee Monday, January 10.

According to Cecil Phillips, Pahokee fire chief, the city's fire department responded to the 4:30 a.m. alarm and was at the scene in about two minutes. The fire was smothered by 6 a.m., he said.

"When we got there, it was engulfed with flames in the back of the building and moving up," said Phillips.

He said firefighters quickly determined the fire would probably destroy the building, located at 339 South Lake Avenue, and concentrated their efforts on controlling the blaze and protecting the surrounding buildings.

The building, owned by J.W. Smith, was totally destroyed in the fire while buildings to the north, south and west of the fire suffered minor damage, said Phillips.

Council oks cable rate increase

PAHOKEE - Cable television rates will go up in Pahokee March 1.

The city council gave its approval to a $150 rate increase effective with the March 1 billing Tuesday evening, January 10.

Sunbelt Cable, Ltd. had requested the rate increase following extensive repairs and improvements to the local cable system.

Kevin McLaughlin, vice president with the company, told the council that if it failed to grant the increase, the company would be forced to charge additional fees for the additional channels it now offers as part of its basic service.

The company had added several channels to the basic service in December 1983. If a rate wasn't granted, the company would be forced to charge an additional fee for each of those channels, McLaughlin said. He said that practice is acceptable under the franchise and is called tiering.

The council granted the increase that will raise the basic service fee from $9.50 to $11 with the condition that tiering not be practiced.

Education program discussed

By BRENDA BUNTING
PAHOKEE - Future goals outlined for Florida schools were presented by Florida Commissioner of Education Ralph Turlington recently.

Turlington spoke to a group of educators, officials and parents at a meeting January 4 at Pahokee High School to outline the five year plan.

Turlington said the legislature of the State Board of Education of Florida is embarking on a program to promote excellence in education in Florida.

The system, according to Turlington, will be based on indicators of progress. He said the system is part of the state of Florida's commitment to placing Florida's school system among the country's top 12 by 1986.

The commissions goal is for the statewide average of educational achievement in the state of Florida to equal that of the upper quartile of states within a five year period.

The indicators are based upon a number of measurements including the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), the American College Testing Program Examination and the American College Testing Examination (ACT).

"This is a good time to talk about what our strategy is," Turlington said. "I believe what we are doing with the five year program is going to be with us for many years."

"We're not expecting our average score as a result of this program to go up," he said. "What we're after is to get a higher and higher number of students to get higher and higher achievement."

educators now believe that if you measure what you are doing, you will do better at it.

"We've operated a long time with out keeping score," Turlington said, adding people like to be recognized for achievement and to do that, you have to keep a scoreboard.

During the meeting, Turlington was presented a key to the city by Mayor Duncan Padgett.

Principal Jack Redding received a certificate from the regional accreditation board commemorating 50 continuous years of accreditation by Pahokee High School.

The certificate comes at a time when Pahokee Junior-Senior High School is facing possible discreditation for too much noise by traffic passing by on U.S. 441 in front of the school.

Police searching for burglary suspect

BELLE GLADE -- Belle Glade police are looking for a man suspected of burglarizing a local woman's home while she was on vacation.

According to Detective Ray Swaford of the Belle Glade Police Department, Anthony Taylor, 25, of Boynton Beach is believed by police to possibly be involved in the theft of $625 worth of property from the residence of Rebecca Sheppard at 524 Northwest Second Street in Belle Glade. According to Swaford, a neighbor discovered the home was broken into at about 7:30 a.m. Sunday, January 8. The neighbor found a broken window and open door at the scene and blood where the burglar or burglars had possibly been cut on broken glass. Officers John Mullins and Fred Riebel went to the scene to conduct the investigation and Riebel, an identification officer, took fingerprint and blood samples. In a check of local hospitals, police discovered Taylor was treated at Everglades

Memorial Hospital in Pahokee Saturday, January 7 at 10 p.m. for glass cuts on both of his arms. Riebel checked the fingerprints taken at the scene of the burglary with those of Riebel's the department had on file and they matched, according to Swaford. Swaford added that a computer check determined there were two outstanding felony warrants for forgery on Taylor.

The Belle Glade Police Department is seeking Taylor for charges of grand theft and burglary. He allegedly stole a color television, microwave and coin collection in the burglary.

Charges filed for candy stealing

SOUTH BAY -- Stealing candy has resulted in the filing of criminal charges against two

South Bay men and a South Bay juvenile. According to Officer Melvin Thomas, Sr. of the South Bay Police Department, Curtis Smith, 18 of 455 Eilon Avenue and Martie Smith, 21 of 105 Southwest 12th

Avenue in South Bay are facing possession of stolen property charges. A 16-year-old South Bay juvenile is charged with grand theft and burglary after he allegedly broke the front window of the New Grill and Pool Room at 190 Northwest Tenth Avenue in South Bay, entered the establishment and stole about $150 in candy and other consumable merchandise at about 1:30 a.m. Monday, January 9.

Thomas said he had observed the juvenile and adults at the scene earlier in the evening and had warned them to leave the store alone.

When the incident was reported the next morning Thomas went to the juvenile's home and apparently found some of the missing merchandise in the

Escapee back in custody

A Glades Correctional Institution scheduled for parole in the near future he apparently decided to taste freedom a little early.

Butler allegedly walked away from a Department of Transportation work crew at about 3 p.m. while the crew was working on U.S. 441 near Pahokee Thursday, January 5.

He was recaptured on 441 near Carter Chevrolet in Pahokee at 11:12 p.m.

According to the statement, Butler was due for parole in a "short time." He was serving a seven-year sentence for a 1979 armed robbery in Hillsborough County and is now in Palm Beach County Jail awaiting charges for his alleged escape.

Opinion

Welcome back, Tri-City League. Again

We want to welcome the Tri-City League back, again. We hope the league is longer-lived this time around, though.

The league, which is supposed to provide a forum for local municipal officials to solve mutual city problems, is rather informally organized and very easily falls apart.

Last year, it stopped meeting when the August meeting was cancelled due to schedule conflicts.

That was unfortunate because league members were just starting to discuss some solid proposals that could have bonded the cities closer together.

One of the biggest proposals involved establishing a taxing district that would fund research intended to prove the Glades is the unique area it is.

We know the Glades is unique, but bureaucrats need proof when considering their rules and regulations.

The league was also bringing in guest speakers from various agencies, such as the county, that had effects in Glades' operations.

The Tri-City League is worthwhile and we welcome it back again. We hope this time it sticks around a little longer in an effort to get results, though.

Black Gold sugar cube sounds fine

We have to admit, last year we were a bit skeptical about the success of the world's largest salad idea.

We thought the idea may give the Black Gold Jubilee an unwanted, even tacky atmosphere.

We were wrong. The salad was a great success and brought some much needed publicity to the event and the area. The event was covered nationally by media without the blatant commercialism and tackiness of a "Real People" or "That's Incredible" program hauling their cameras and personalities in.

With that in mind, it's only natural that the committee is looking for a similar gimmick to attract attention to this year's festival.

We think the world's largest sugar cube is a good idea and worth a try if it is handled in the same way as the salad.

This is sugar country and a large sugar cube would require the involvement of the area's largest industry.

We only hope the committee members recognize the success they had last year by attracting legitimate media coverage and thus shy away from the human oddity and freak shows that air on several stations.

We hope the committee is successful in its attempts to build the cube and that it treats the event properly.

Commission tries to 'right wrong' by ordinance change

The Belle Glade city commission will probably be taking action necessary to permit a tire repair business to locate in the southeast section of the city.

It may appear the city commissioners are bending over backward to help a particular businessman circumvent the city code, but that isn't the case here.

The businessman who brought the matter before the commission had his own aims in doing so. Otherwise, he wouldn't have been there. But his problem brought to the city commission's attention some discrepancies in the city code that should be corrected.

The code, for some reason, allows any type of repair service in a B1 or B3 zone, but restricts B2 to certain types of repair services.

This apparently doesn't make sense when viewed in connection with the rest of the business zoning.

Sometimes it takes a disgruntled citizen with a personal interest at stake to bring discrepancies like this to the city's attention. We're glad the city is willing to do something about it now that it's aware of the problem.

Is there ANYBODY out there?

If so, are you angry, happy, sad or just indifferent? We want to hear from you! Tell us what you think of the town you're living in and the people who run it. Tell us what you think of us. A letter to the editor can get your views across to others who may or may not feel the same way.

We encourage letters to the editor.

The Cracker Crumb writes home

Editor:

What's in a name? A heck of a lot. Ask Joe.

So now we all know what it's gonna cost us if we decide to slander someone but there's still something ironic about the fine slapped on Joe Hughes for saying Suzie Wallis was in "Hustler" magazine a couple of years ago.

Without getting into the did-he-or-didn't-be, guilt or innocence question — the jury answered that one — the $130,000 fine slapped on Joe for saying Suzie was undercolorful spread out in the magazine's "Beaver Hunt" spread has got to raise a few eyebrows about the priorities of the so-called criminal justice system.

Consider that Joe was left for dead by a couple of drag-racing youngsters last year and the price tag they paid was a $500 fine and a year's probation by the one who didn't actually hit him and a $1,000 fine and a year's probation for the one who did.

Joe did get some help though. The $1,000 fine is being paid to Joe at the rate of $50 a month and Joe told me not long ago that he's $100 richer than he was before he was clobbered and left lying in the road. I guess he can apply what he gets from that fine to pay off Suzie.

Maybe he can even pay off Suzie on the same basis. That way, she'll be able to retire sometime in September 2200.

I reckon the moral of the two stories is that a person's name is worth $128,500 more than a person's life.

Not that Joe is dead. He's still around to make the big payoff to Suzie, but Gaston Hernandez and Benjamin Rosario almost cost her a sizeable chunk of money when Hernandez slammed his car into Joe as he was jogging along Hooker Highway extension.

Actually, Hernandez and Rosario would have gotten off cheaper if they'd backed up and finished the job, that is if you can judge from a couple of other sentences handed down to people who actually killed their victims.

Eddie Bouie got away with a five-year probation for allegedly running down and killing Nelson Prieto and Manuel Casal last January at Glades Sugar House and Cynthia Riddle was sentenced to pay $500 and get her license for a year after she supposedly pulled her pickup truck out to pass a car on state road 715 and slammed head-on into Susan Moya, killing her at Rardin Park.

Gotta be honest, though, and say vehicular homicide charges were dropped in both those cases and Riddle and Bouie were sentenced for reckless driving.

Lessee now, chalk all those up and you'd pay a total of $2,000 and serve about seven years of probation for killing three people and leaving someone else for dead.

On the other hand, it's worth a cool $130,000 to show someone a dirty picture and say it is, or might be, a mutual acquaintance posing prone for said porn.

There's a lesson there somewhere but I must be dense because I'm damned if I can figure it out.

Unless... yeah!

It's coming to me now. The criminal justice system of these United States of America, in all its awesome wisdom, has come the conclusion that someone's name is worth a sight more than their life.

And I guess that means that if you're really hacked off at someone, don't slander 'em to get even, assuming you don't wanta just get mad.

Kill 'em instead. It's cheaper in the long run. It's probably more satisfying too. Instead of saying "what's his name is a dirty so-and-so, I guess the thing to do is grab a bottle of booze and a car, find out where of what's his name jogs, walks or rides a motorcycle, drink about half the bottle of booze, get in your car, drive out and wipe 'em right out."

Besides, you commit murder or mayhem in a car and the only people you got to worry about are state prosecutors. Slander 'em and you got an attorney with a real reason to nail your hide to the wall.

Well, he's gonna get a hefty hunk of $130,000.

Likes junk settlement

Editor:

"With malice toward none," I am writing this letter. Many of us are aware of the junk situation in South Bay.

Do good and it will soon be forgotten.

Do bad and you will be condemned.

Do nothing and you will be criticized.

Having read the papers concerning the removal of abandoned junk vehicles in South Bay, my only regret is that the city did not remove that junk long before. What appalls me immensely is the reactions of all those sanctimonious public officials who have come forward to upbraid criticize and condemn the South Bay city commissioners and city attorney for the decision they have made.

If those cowardly hypocrites had voiced their support in favor of the city of South Bay, probably the city commissioners would be encouraged to fight or pursue this case to the Supreme Court. By the same token, if the City of South Bay had continued to the United States Supreme Court and lost, they would be the laughing stock of those very people who now condemn them for settling with the junk owners for $3,000.

In my opinion, the city of South Bay has done the most discretionary thing with malice toward none. I support the city commissioners and city attorney of South Bay.

"And What Not"

My secret is out, as I knew it would be, sooner or later. And, I must say, the reaction didn't quite come up to my expectations. Not by a long distance. The secret is that I bought myself a man.

If you're picturing a handsome, debonair, suave, dashing hunk of hemale, Hurray! That's how I hoped you'd think of him. But the plain truth is he's a tiny little man — at least the part I bought is. Still, for what I paid for that he must be Mr. Six Million Dollars himself. Otherwise I might have tried to negotiate for the rest of him.

Anyway, my man is so itty-bitsy he fits on the microphone of a phone answering device. I hadn't expected him to come with it. Most answering machines I've talked to greet you with an announcement recorded by the callee. But my device came with a built-in greeter, a call boy, you might say.

As soon as I'd plugged in the device, I dashed over to friend Betty's house to call myself up. Sure enough, on the line came this baritone smoothie to tell me in tones of creamy velvet: "I'm sorry but nobody (Nobody! That's me I squealed with delight, casting aside my grammar with my good sense — but you know how people in love are) can come to the phone at the moment."

I was thrilled to my toes. I swooned with delight as I chortled, "Wait! 'til my friends get a load of him!"

I fantasized his voice reaching out to touch somebody with a jolt: "What does he mean by 'he can't come to the phone at the moment'?" Would they imagine a tanned arm stretched across a pillow to answer the phone while I was slipping into something comfortable before returning their call? Golly, Molly, I hoped so. Would the party line buzz with busy signals as the gossip-traded questions: "Who's the man?" "Have you seen him?" "Has she said anything about him?"

I could hardly stand it, waiting for the moment I'd arrive home to find the light flashing that tells me I have a recorded call on the machine. Finally, it happened. Holding my breath, quivering with anticipation, I reeled in the recorded tape. Sure enough, there was the sound of Mr. Wonderful telling somebody I couldn't come to the phone "at the moment." I danced up and down waiting for the caller's reaction. And I danced. And I danced. First up and then down. And what was the reaction? Nothing, nada. Dead air. Not even the sound of heavy breathing.

"So green with jealousy they were left speechless," I commented sardonically to the silent tape as I rewound it to hear Gorgeous George tell me provocatively that he was now ready to "screen and record my messages." I blew him a kiss and told him to take the rest of the night off. "Why don't you go out with the boys tonight and I'll answer the phone myself," I said airily, parking myself on the edge of my chair with the phone in my lap.

At last, at last. The bell tolled for me and it was the caller who'd been greeted by Himself, only to tip-toe quietly off the line.

"Oh, you're the one who called," I purred. "You didn't leave any message."

"I know," she said. "But I thought I had a wrong number."

At the sound of her tone, my line went dead. What a rotten twist to that cliché, "If a man answers, hang up."

So much for our relationship — his and mine. So, it didn't work out. We're still together, aren't we? He still comes to life when I push his button. He still tries to woo me with his assurance that he is ready to record my messages. But the thrill is gone. I no longer pat him fondly on his chest. "Of course, you will," I mumble. "That's what I bought you for, Charming Charlie."

USDA announces 1984 rice program

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block this week said provisions of the 1984 rice program will include a 25 percent acreage reduction requirement. The signup period for the program will be Jan. 16 through Feb. 24. There will be no payment-in-kind program for the 1984 rice crop. To be eligible for program benefits, Block said, producers need to limit 1984 rice plantings to no more than 75 percent of the farm's rice base and devote to an acreage conservation reserve eligible cropland equal to 33.33 percent of the 1984 planted acreage. Other major details of the 1984 rice program include:

- A target price of $11.90 per hundredweight, the statutory minimum.
- A national average loan and purchase price of $8 per hundredweight, the statutory minimum. Block said he set the rate at the minimum since U.S. rice exports in 1984 are forecast to be low because the loan rate makes U.S. rice uncompetitive in some export markets. The whole kernel loan rates per pound will be 14.96 cents for long grain and 10.81 cents for medium and short grain. The broken kernels rate is 6.2 cents per pound.
- Farm-stored rice loans will be based on the national average loan rate of the type of rice used as loan collateral.

The 1984 acreage base will be the average of the acreage planted to rice in 1982 and 1983. No adjustments of rice bases for the control of rice shall be permitted.

- There will be no advance payment of deficiency payments.
- Having will not be permitted on the conservation use acreage. However, the acreage may be grazed except during the six principal growing months.
- Offsetting compliance will not apply.
- Contracts will be considered as binding and will provide for liquidated damages for failure of participants to comply with program requirements.
- Land designated for conservation use must have been devoted to row crops or small grains in two of the last three years.

Pahokee Elementary School wins accreditation

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, through its Commission on Elementary Schools, has awarded continuing accreditation to Pahokee Elementary School at its 88th annual meeting in New Orleans December 11-14, 1983. Through accreditation, school staff and faculty members will benefit by knowing that conditions for teaching in accredited schools meet certain minimum standards and that efforts are continuously made to improve these conditions, according to an association release. Regional standards require adequate facilities and their effective use. Citizens are assured of accountability and of value for their tax dollars through the process of standard setting and the regular reevaluation of SACS member institutions, the release added. Founded in 1895, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is one of six regional accrediting bodies in the United States. More than 11,000 member universities, colleges, junior colleges, occupational institutions, secondary schools, middle schools, elementary schools enroll approximately five million students.

Senator Childers to chair meeting

There will be a meeting of the Palm Beach County Legislative Delegation, chaired by Senator Don C. Childers January 18 at 10:30 a.m. in the city council chambers of Belle Glade city hall at 110 SW Ave. E. Other delegation members scheduled to attend are Representatives Ray Liberti and James Watt. They will hear complaints and requests from area residents. Any proposals will be considered by the legislators during the 1984 session which takes place in April and May. One item of local legislation that will be considered is a request by the Ritta Drainage District to raise its taxing cap on maintenance from $12 to $20. The rate has not changed since 1976. Senator Childers said, "This is the opportunity for citizens of the Belle Glade area to tell their state representatives of their feelings and ideas about existing or proposed legislation. We would also be glad to hear their comments on any issue that might affect them."

Photography class scheduled

An eight week Beginning Photography course will be offered by Glades Central Community School Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. starting January 18. Lenses, all exposure adjustments, camera handling, composition, electronic flash, and basic color theory will be explained and explored. Call the Community School Office at 996-4950 for more information.

Sugar cube possible

BELLE GLADE - The Black Gold Jubilee steering committee is giving "serious consideration" to building the world's largest sugar cube as the major attraction at the 1984 festival.

Chairman Ernie McCroan said committee members are trying to determine if a record exists for sugar cubes and, if so, how big the record holder is.

"I really think we'll go for it unless it turns out the record is just unattainable, like the size of a building," said McCroan. "If there's not a record, then a foot by a foot would do it."

An eight foot cube would weigh somewhere in the neighborhood of 13 tons, said McCroan.

UP WITH PEOPLE cast members did some clean up work in Belle Glade last Friday at the home of Ed Fulenwider, 661 SE 1st Street. This was the first time any of the

A Pinch of Salt

"This is the day which the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad in it." Psalm 118:24.
How do you feel about today? Do you have the attitude that this is a lousy day and you'll be glad when it has ended? Did you awake this morning saying, "Good Lord, it's morning!" or were you able to say with a grateful heart, "Good morning, Lord."

Rejoice and be glad today

The psalmist says that God is the one who created this day. How do you rate this day that God has made for you? Are you rejoicing; are you really glad in it? Or do I hear you saying by your general attitude, "God, you do poor work."

Your attitude may not be expressed quite that openly, but if you are in the habit of wasting each day and its countless opportunities, then you are saying to God, "This day wasn't worth much anyway."

Not only do you slap Him in the face when you waste the days the Lord has made, but you suffer unavoidable consequences. Boredome comes first. Whether you waste your time passively or actively, you can count on being bored sooner or later. Then regret. Tomorrow you will look back at today and say, "why didn't I do...?" And the only reason you can honestly give is that the day the Lord made didn't really mean that much to you.

Poverty is the third consequence you must suffer for wasting those beautiful days the Lord makes for you. Consider the lesson of Proverbs 24:30-34.

"I walked by the field of a certain lazy fellow and saw that it was overgrown with thorns, and covered with weeds; and its walls were broken down. Then as I looked, I learned this lesson: A little extra sleep. A little more slumber. A little folding of the hands to rest' means that poverty will break in upon you suddenly like a robber, and violently like a bandit."

Rejoice and be glad today, and make good use of the time. "This is the day which the Lord has made..."

Card of thanks

We, the family of Carl Price, would like to thank each and everyone for the beautiful flowers, food and kindness shown us during this sad time of our lives.

Carl passed away at 11:10 a.m. Dec. 19, 1983 at Miami Heart Institute. Carl is deeply loved and will always be missed and his death was a terrible shock to us.

But your sympathy and support and prayers are helping us through this time. We know that we have the most wonderful friends and neighbors anyone could ever have and we do appreciate you very much.

May God-bless you all.

Commission tries to 'right wrong' through ordinances

BELLE GLADE — A current Belle Glade city ordinance will apparently be changed and amended to correct what city commissioners view as a discrepancy brought to their attention by a resident trying to open a business.

Emelio Perez of 972 Southeast Fourth Street told city commissioners Monday night, January 9 that his attempts to open a tire repair service on Southeast First Street have been blocked by a clause in the code that distinguishes between the repair services allowed in areas zoned B1, B2 and B3.

All repair services are apparently permitted in areas zoned B1 and B3, but only shoes and clothing can be repaired in B2 zones. The property on which Perez said he wants to establish his shop is zoned B2.

Perez also told the commission that he had checked with the city building and planning department and city attorney and was told by Building Inspector Barry Underwood, Planning Director Remar M. Harvin and, through Harvin, City Attorney John E. Baker, that there would be no problem with Perez proceeding with his plans.

"It wasn't until he had invested about $100,000 in the building that city officials told him there was a problem preventing him from opening the shop in the chosen location.

Harvin said he had examined the property January 3 and that everything appeared to be in order at that time.

"He added that he went to the city attorney on the matter because the code did appear to have some discrepancies and he wanted to be sure it was legal.

Mayor Thomas L. Altman asked if tire sales were permitted in a B2 zone and they were. Harvin said the code didn't address the question of mounting those tires.

Tri-City League reorganizing

Tri-City League Revival 1984.

The Tri-City League, composed of city officials from Belle Glade, Pahokee and South Bay, will be getting back together again Monday, January 16.

The league has been inactive, except for the Tri-City League's annual Municipal League meeting in December, since late last summer when a scheduling conflict forced the cancellation of the August 1983 meeting.

The league at that time had been active for less than a year after reorganizing in late 1982. The newest revival will be at 7:30 p.m. January 10.

The league was organized as a forum for Glades area government officials to discuss mutual problems and possibly seek solutions to those problems as a group.

Baker pointed out that there were similar businesses in the area of Perez's proposed business.

"I think what Mr. Perez wants to do would not be too far out of line," said Harvin.

Baker said the part of the code establishing B2 zones should be broadened to accommodate tire repair and that it should be addressed soon since the code is inconsistent.

"I agree with the rest of the commission that we oughta try to fix this," said Altman.

Altman also said the clauses in the code providing for a "totally enclosed" building wasn't practical with this type of business.

Perez said he planned to do all repair work inside the building but admitted the bay doors to the establishment would be open during working hours.

Baker agreed that people aren't going to open and close garage doors to keep all the work in an enclosed building.

The commission changed the section of the code restricting what types of repair services are permitted in B2 zones when they gave first approval to a zoning ordinance later that evening.

The city commission also asked Attorney John

E. Baker to draw up an accessible use ordinance that would permit Perez to operate a tire repair service at the site.

An accessible use ordinance would establish a specific use for a plot of property within a zone. That will allow the city to retain the B2 restrictions throughout the rest of the city, according to Baker and Altman.

Baker told Perez that while the commissioners seemed committed to correcting the problem, any work Perez decided to do in preparing the business before final approval of the necessary ordinances would constitute a "crap shoot" on Perez's part. Baker said if the city commissioners should change their minds, Perez could "kiss this $100,000 good bye."

"Oh, I can kiss $100,000 good bye," said Perez, who reiterated that he had received the go-ahead from city officials before investing the funds and it was only after he was almost ready to open that the same officials raised objections.

"I don't anticipate anyone changing their minds," said Altman. "But I think what Mr. Baker is saying is you can't rule that out. It's nothing we have control over as far as the time constraints. Just bear with us. We're gonna try

"Well, it was just the way he said it. 'You can kiss it good bye.' It got me a little upset," said Perez.

"Well, they set the odds, I just tell what they are," said Baker.

The Planning and Zoning Board must review the proposed changes in the code before the commission can give it the final adoption.

Baker said final approval won't be available until the commission's February 13 meeting because of the legal requirements of the state and city.

Altman asked City Manager W.E. "Tom" Strang, Jr. to direct the planning department to put all interpretations and orders to builders and citizens in writing in the future.

That written form should include a disclaimer stating that only written orders and interpretations are valid.

"If they tell you to do something, say 'Put it in writing,'" said Commissioner Dan Bythwood to Perez. "The commission's with you, but you still gotta go before the Planning and Zoning Board. And that may be where you have your problem. I don't know. We have no control over them."

Authority to clean and paint

PAHOKEE — Three homes owned by the Pahokee Housing Authority will be cleaned up and painted by order of the authority's board of directors.

The three houses, part of the administration fund, can be pressure cleaned on the exterior, primed and painted for about $2,300, according to Executive Director Randall J. Mills.

The board also gave Mills permission to check on the possibility of having repairs done on parking courts and streets in the shop area and administration fund office areas of Fremb Village.

Hospital

approximately 11 months. The projected cost is $2.6 million, with the purchase of additional equipment to bring the total cost to $2.9 million.

Anderson said McDevitt and Street is the third largest health care construction company in the United States. At the Pahokee City Commission meeting Tuesday, the commission voted to waive the $2,364 building permit fee.

Mayor Duncan Padgett introduced Dale Milita a spokesman from Everglades Memorial Hospital and Milita made the request. "They're fixing to enlarge the hospital," Padgett said, "and if you all don't know how much red tape it takes to enlarge a hospital, well, try it sometime."

The groundbreaking will take place in two to three weeks.

THE KEYS TO THE CITY OF PAHOKEE are presented to State Commissioner of Education Ralph Turlington (right) by Mayor Duncan Padgett when Turlington visited Pahokee last Wednesday.

Fire

Eleven people lived in the Smith building which was a grocery store converted into a rooming house.

None of the residents were injured in the fire. Six pumps responded to the fire. Three were from Pahokee and there were pumps from Belle Glade, Canal Point and the forestry service.

No cause has been determined for the blaze and samples have been taken at the site. "Arson is not ruled out, let's put it that way. We don't know exactly what did cause it," said Phillips. "It was an old building and hen it got started, it didn't take long. We were really lucky to have no more damage than was done cause those other buildings weren't but three or four feet away."

Water

Several citizens were also at the meeting to discuss the city's water.

J. Ray Hatton II said the water tasted and smelled bad and that it often discolored coffee pots and utensils in his office at work.

Other residents said they were concerned about reports that the city had a large concentration of trihalomethanes, a suspected carcinogen, in its water.

They said they wondered if the supposed large incidence of cancer in the city was connected with THM concentration in the city's water.

W.M. Balmer, the water plant operator, said the water's taste, smell and discoloration was due to the large amount of dead algae in the lake water.

He said there is nothing unhealthy about the algae but that filtering can't remove the small, taste or color.

The high concentration of dead algae was due to the hot weather the area experienced just prior to the recent cold spell. When the cold weather hit, the organisms died and their remains are pulled into the city water supply.

The plant isn't designed to remove algae from its water and the city will experience the bad taste and discoloration periodically as the weather incites algae growth and then kills it off.

The recent fire helped the city get rid of some of the bad water, he said.

"It'll clean up until the next northwest wind and the next eruption (of algae), unless we get that pipe back up off the bottom."

The intake pipe into the lake had been shortened during the drought to get deeper into the water. The four foot length that would pull the pipe off the bottom has never been put back on the end of the pipe.

The council decided to check into the possibility of getting the pipe off the bottom the lake by reconnecting the four-foot length.

Balmer said the only regulation the city isn't in compliance with at the water plant is the THM regulation, and he said because of the size of the city's population, it doesn't have to comply with the THM regulations.

"I don't think the size of the city should have any bearing on it," said Councilman Ronnie Graydon. "We're just as important as those people in West Palm Beach."

"They scare people in the first place with those trihalomethanes," said Balmer.

He said regulations limit THMs to 100 parts per billion while the city is carrying 800 parts per billion THMs.

"We don't know that the water's causing it (the large incidence of cancer cases in the city)," said one resident. "But it has come from somewhere, either the water or breathing or food."

The council, at Suddarth's recommendation, will be looking to placing an ammonia system at the plant to remove the THMs.

That would cost an estimated $49,000, according to Suddarth, and the state or federal government may require the city to do something else in a couple years.
